

Laminate Diary Covers

Artwork Specification

Artwork for Laminate Diary Covers

If you are sending us pages or artwork it must be prepared correctly. This document outlines what is required, but the person, department or agency your company uses to create these items will be familiar with the requirements explained in this document.

InDesign Native Files

Files must be correct size with all high resolution (at least 300dpi) images used in CMYK or greyscale. Fonts, pictures and links must also be supplied (This can be achieved using the "Package" option under the File Menu in InDesign).

PDF

Files to be supplied in correct size, with all fonts embedded. All images are CMYK or greyscale at least 300dpi. PDFs are generated using the "Press Quality" Setting in InDesign or Acrobat.

Spot Colours / Pantones / RGB

Please make sure any spot colours used are relevant to the job e.g. Only use them if you are printing using that spot colour in addition to CMYK. If you are not actually printing that Spot Colour please convert it to CMYK.

Please convert all RGB colours and images to CMYK before creating the PDF. Remember that the nice bright colours achievable in RGB are not always possible in CMYK. It is better for you to convert to CMYK at your end and see any unwanted colour shifts rather than see it on the final product when it is too late.

Artwork for Blocks

Files for blocking dies must be 'vector' eps files only. PDFs can be used but ideally supply as Illustrator EPS or AI files.

Not all eps files are vector files. A true vector is where the graphic is draw using paths and not pixels, this means that it can be used at any resolution or size without degradation.

Artwork must be solid black with NO tints, shading or colour.

A minimum of 8pt is required for text and 0.75pt for keylines when blocking onto diary covers, any smaller and the type or line will fill in when blocked and cannot be read.
